SEQRITE, the enterprise arm of global cybersecurity solutions provider Quick Heal Technologies Limited, is excited to announce a strategic partnership with Syscom, a renowned technology solutions provider, to extend SEQRITE's robust cybersecurity offerings to the dynamic Middle East market.

As businesses across the Middle East continue to grapple with evolving cyber threats, the partnership between SEQRITE and Syscom aims to fortify digital defenses and empower businesses with cutting-edge cybersecurity solutions.

With its extensive experience and a strong presence in the Middle East, Syscom will serve as a key distributor for SEQRITE’s comprehensive suite of cybersecurity products. This collaboration will enable businesses in the region to access SEQRITE’s advanced Endpoint Security, Zero Trust solution suite, and data privacy platforms, ensuring a resilient defense against ever-growing cyber risks.

“Our partnership with Syscom marks a significant milestone in expanding our presence in the Middle East. With Syscom’s robust reputation and deep understanding of the region, we are confident in delivering our advanced cybersecurity solutions to businesses grappling with evolving threats. As we join forces, we reaffirm our commitment to fortifying digital defenses and empowering organisations with cutting-edge technologies. Together, we aim to address the pressing cybersecurity needs of Middle Eastern businesses, ensuring a resilient defense against the rising tide of cyber risks,” said Vishal Salvi, Chief Executive Officer of Quick Heal Technologies Limited and SEQRITE.

Syscom is known for its commitment to offering quality brands of IT products and services to the MENA region. The company sees this partnership as a significant step in addressing the pressing cybersecurity needs of organisations in the Middle East. “We are proud to partner with SEQRITE, a company known for its expertise in cybersecurity. This collaboration aligns with Syscom’s commitment to delivering top-quality technology solutions in the Middle East. Together, we aim to bring unparalleled security solutions to our clients, ensuring a safer digital environment for businesses across the Middle East,” stated Hamid Ansari, Managing Director, Syscom Distributions LLC.

With cyber threats on the rise globally, the SEQRITE-Syscom partnership comes at a crucial time, providing Middle Eastern businesses with the tools and expertise needed to safeguard their digital assets and maintain business continuity.
